Two Dairies Cut Prices

Cheaper Milk in Stores To Take Effect Today

Home Deliveries Won't Change

A general downward shift in the price of milk sold in stores is expected to take effect in Greater Victoria today.

The new wholesale price announced last night by two leading city dairies is 22 cents a quart—a drop of one cent. Other dairies are expected to follow suit.

DOWN A CENT

Lawrence Westendale, president of the Independent Merchants' Co-operative Association, said last night that the retail price of milk, sold to storekeepers at the new price, would be 23 cents—a drop of one cent.

Some Victoria supermarkets have been selling milk retail to customers at 23 cents a quart since before Christmas.

NOT FOR HOMES

New price is not expected to affect home delivery prices.

Shannon Dairies, a Vancouver firm which recently expanded its operations to include sales of milk to Victoria supermarkets, is believed to have started the move. The firm does not make home deliveries in Victoria.

HIGH COSTS

Victoria dairies are expected to meet the competition with lower prices to stores, but high costs of home deliveries are likely to keep those prices at their present level of 25 cents a quart, one spokesman said.

W. Palitti, manager of Shannon Dairies in Vancouver, last night refused to name his firm's retail price to stores. Told that a Victoria dairy plans to sell at 22 cents a quart, he said: "That sounds like they are meeting our price."

TWO FIRMS

Victoria firms which will charge the lower price from today are Palm Dairies Ltd. and Island Farms Dairies Co-operative Association.

A spokesman for Northwest Creamery Ltd. said he had heard nothing about a price drop in milk sold to stores and his firm's wholesale price would remain at 23 cents a quart.

U.S. Says

'Baby' Moons Ready

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States plans to fire a simple form of life into space aboard one of its first test earth satellites, it was disclosed yesterday.

A navy spokesman said a small container of yeast would be carried hundreds of miles above the earth by "one or more" of the baby satellites scheduled to be launched between now and March.

TO SEND BACK DATA

The navy plans to launch up to four six-inch satellites during the next three months. Then it plans to launch its first fully-instrumented 20-inch satellite.

The spokesman said the yeast would be in a special container equipped with instruments which presumably would transmit data back to earth.

Technicians working on a test satellite-carrying Vanguard rocket at Cape Canaveral, Fla., appeared to be preparing to fire it by the end of the week.

Just when the 72-foot rocket would be fired was a closely-guarded secret. Security has been tightened considerably at Canaveral since the first launching attempt failed last month.

BETTER THAN DOG

There was no immediate indication whether the test satellite about to be fired would contain any yeast.

Dr. Hilden T. Cox, executive director of the American Institue of Biological Sciences, said the yeast cells would produce "infinitely more significant data than putting a mammal such as a dog" into space. He said Russia also may put yeast cells in its future satellites.

All set to open the door on a new session of the legislature is Hugh Shantz, speaker-designate, who is expected to take office shortly after the session begins at 3 p.m. today. Mr. Shantz is having trouble getting the new tricornered hat, which he sent for after the resignation of former speaker Thomas Irwin, to sit properly on his head. The hat is round and he says his head is egg-shaped.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

Pageantry Opens House Today

Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross will officially open the B.C. Legislature amid traditional pomp and pageantry at 3 p.m. today.

Highlight of the day will be the reading of the Throne Speech in which a broad outline of the proposed legislation to be introduced during the coming seven or eight weeks will be given.

About 400 invited guests will pack the floor of the legislature and the public galleries will be thrown open on a first come, first served basis. Tickets may be obtained at the front office at the main doors.

The traditional 21-gun salute will be fired by Victoria's new official saluting battery, the 5th Independent Medium Battery RCA. A 100-man guard of honor will be provided by the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) in full Highland dress.

Another high point of the opening ceremonies will be the election of Hugh Shantz, MLA for North Okanagan, as Speaker of the legislative assembly. He succeeds Tom Irwin who resigned last year to contest the Burnaby-Richmond seat in the federal election.

For the past two days the 10-man CCF opposition has met in caucus to decide party strategy for the coming weeks.

Lauds B.C.

Canada would do well to take a lesson from British Columbia when it celebrates its centenary in 1967, John Fisher, executive director of the Canadian Tourist Association, said here yesterday. See story on page 21.

Hole 150 Feet Across

Chemical Blast Leaves 60 Hurt

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — An earth-shaking explosion Wednesday in a line of chemical tank cars moving through this city's northeast suburbs injured at least 60 persons and caused property damage that could total $1,000,000.

Several of the injured were pupils in Hyde Park Public School. But apparently only two persons, employees of the Niagara Junction Railroad, were severely injured.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Cause of the explosion was not determined immediately.

The explosion tore apart a huge section of the railway's yards in the town of Niagara, just outside the northeast city line. It ripped open a hole more than 40 feet deep and 150 feet across. It damaged nearby houses severely, smashed windows two miles distant and rattled dishes in homes five miles away.

POWER OFF

Power throughout most of this heavily-industrialized city of 100,000 was cut off briefly.

In the sparsely-settled blast area itself, utility lines were ripped off the poles. Home owners reported roofs damaged, plaster fallen, porches collapsed and brick veneer jarred loose.

The Niagara County sheriff's department evacuated the area in case harmful fumes might follow the explosion.

FIVE CARS

The cars involved in the explosion were in a switching operation. There were about 20 in the lineup—most of them tankers. At least five were demolished.

The Niagara Junction Railroad is an electrically-powered service line for industries in Niagara Falls. It is owned by trunk railways coming into the area.

Rebel Forces Oust Jimenez In Venezuela

CARACAS (UP)—Caracas Radio announced today the government of Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez had been overthrown.

An announcement at 2.30 a.m. said a civil and military group had won a bitter two-day battle to overthrow the dictatorship set up in 1948 by Perez Jimenez.

The official broadcast over the government radio said a civil-military movement "has taken control of the government of President Marcos Perez Jimenez following an accord among the armed forces."

Several minutes before the announcement a presidential escort was seen speeding toward La Carlota airport and it appeared the deposed president was fleeing the country.

The first bloody rioting attended a general strike Tuesday.

The initial outbreak Tuesday was accompanied by heavy rifle and machine-gun fire. Gasoline fire-bombings destroyed at least 30 buses and 20 other vehicles.

Russian Scheme Chilled

ANKARA, Turkey (UP) — The Moslem members of the Baghdad Pact yesterday gave a cool reception to Russia's proposal for a Middle East "peace zone," but observers said it might find support among the area's uncommitted nations.

Diplomats attending the Baghdad Pact meeting here said the proposal was one-sided since it banned atomic missiles from the Middle East nations, but said nothing about Russian territory bordering the Middle East.

Informed Iranian government sources in Tehran rejected the Russian proposal as benefiting only the Communist nations. They said the plan would render Iran and other countries bordering Russia defenceless, while the Red Army would be equipped with all the latest weapons.

B.C. Has Its Eye On Texas

Why do so many Americans—but so few Texans—visit British Columbia?

Because Texans get an inferiority complex when they come to this province which is half again as big as the sprawling Lone Star republic-state, suggests B.C. Centennial Committee general chairman L. J. Wallace.

This, he announced last night, is the catch-line of an ad that will appear in the New Yorker next month, jointly sponsored by his committee and the government travel bureau.

Tunnel of Radio Waves Guides Russian Rockets

LONDON (UP) — A Russian scientist indicated yesterday the Soviet Union achieves almost pinpoint accuracy with intercontinental ballistic missiles by using a "tunnel" of radio waves to guide their launching.

A Moscow radio broadcast quoted the scientist, Prof. Georgy Prokrovsky, as suggesting Soviet ICBMs were designed to hit within 10 kilometers—6.2 miles—of a chosen target.

ICBMs have a range of 5,000 miles.

Moscow radio said Prokrovsky wrote a long article for the Soviet magazine Young Technican which "tells of the way in which precision is achieved in the targeting of the intercontinental rocket."

The rocket, he said, "must be launched along precisely-aimed grooves or a shaft hundreds of kilometers long."

"Such a shaft is created with the aid of radio stations. Three or four radio stations direct radio waves in the wake of the rocket.

"These waves form a sort of canal or tunnel . . . at the slightest deviation, the rocket enters a zone where the radio waves are more intense.

"The waves act on the automatic instruments on the rocket's control panel and return it to the central tunnel."

Firewood for Free Foils Log Piracy?

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—MacMillan & Bloedel plans to provide Sproat Lake residents with free firewood.

Representatives of the big lumber firm told a ratepayers' meeting it intends to take no action against recent log piracy.

Instead, residents of the lake area are offered four small booms of reject logs they can use for firewood. The rejects will be available between Jan. 24 and Feb. 24.

The representatives said the log piracy had cost the firm $1,000 monthly.

Race Against Winter

Fuchs Starts Defiant Trek

THE SOUTH POLE (Reuters)—British explorer Dr. Vivian Fuchs and his 11-man Commonwealth Antarctic team left yesterday on a 1,250-mile trek in defiance of approaching Antarctic winter.

The men, travelling in five tractors, face a gruelling schedule over rugged terrain in order to beat the winter weather to Scott Base on the New Zealand side of the continent.

Dr. Fuchs, who arrived at the American expedition base here last Sunday from Shackleton Base—900 miles away on the South American side of the continent—was confident he would make it.

He must make the crossing before March, according to polar experts, for the setting in of the southern hemisphere's winter then would make travel practically impossible—and any attempts at rescue dangerous.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A man I know who is still holding out against television says that when he does surrender, it will be on his own terms.

"I want to have the set in a separate room or at least in a cabinet that I can lock up," he declares. "I have seen too many rooms that are dominated by the set.

"Even when the set is turned off, people keep looking at it nervously, as if they expect it to turn itself on and join the conversation."

The television set assumes the role of a peevish, domineering uncle or mother-in-law that has come to stay. In some houses, it does. But in my friend's house it will be different.

"When a set comes into my house it will be as a servant, not as a member of the family," he observes. "It will live in its own quarters, and enter our lives only when ordered."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles of the U.S.A. has accused Russia of trying to "discombobulate" the efforts of NATO countries . . .

I looked up the word in both Oxford and Webster dictionaries. It wasn't there. Either Mr. Dulles made up the word, or someone else — perhaps a ghost-writer—made it up for him.

Mr. Dulles may have meant that the Russians are trying to confuse us, which is a favorite pastime of theirs.

Dulles Drawing Comic Strip?

It seems typical of Mr. Dulles that instead of using a plain word from the dictionary, he uses a bogus word that was twice as long and virtually meaningless.

Mr. Dulles would be wise to leave the manufacture of new words to professionals like James Joyce and Walt Kelly, and concentrate on learning statesmanship. No, I take that back. The world would be safer with Walt Kelly as secretary of state, and Mr. Dulles drawing a comic strip.

Ald. Millard Mooney thinks the Royal Oak Burial Park board should be chary about funerals on credit.

"Is he asking us to accept any funeral at all without checking the credit ratings?" he demanded to know, when a representative of the funeral directors appeared before the board to ask for funerals on the cuff.

"Is it good business to extend credit to everyone?" Ald. Mooney wanted to know.

No. But he is dealing with a steady, reliable type of customer here. There isn't the slightest danger that the client will skip town and put the creditors to all the trouble of tracing him and putting on a garnishee.

This kind of customer never squanders money at the racetrack. If he welshes on his payments, you know exactly where to find him. And he never talks back. How many credit buyers can make those claims?

Gaither Report Hushed

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower refused yesterday to hand over the controversial Gaither defence report to Senate investigators on grounds it was prepared solely for the executive branch of government.

"Throughout our history," he said, "the president has withheld information whenever he found that what was sought was confidential or that it would jeopardize the nation's safety or the proper functioning of our government."

UN Acts To Cool Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Security Council voted unanimously Wednesday to strengthen the UN's authority over a demilitarized neutral zone south of Jerusalem.

It adopted a British-U.S. resolution to do this with the object of settling a dispute between Israel and Jordan on the kind of work permitted in the zone.

During the session, Canada, Japan and Panama were welcomed as new members of the council. The resolution directed the UN's acting Palestine truce chief, U.S. Marine Col. Byron V. Leary, to regulate activities in the area and not allow Israelis to use Arab-owned properties nor Arabs to use Israeli-owned properties. It called on Israel and Jordan to destroy their military installations there.

Of Blood Sport and Duels

Comes a Cropper?

ILFRACOMBE, England (CP)—Sir William Williams is a baronet whose fondness for stag-hunting is equalled by his lack of fondness for people who disapprove of blood sports.

Terry Dunn is a commoner whose passions are aroused by stag hunters and slights on British womanhood.

Dunn's sister-in-law, Mrs. Cicely Norman, shares his convictions and voices them vigorously at anti-hunting demonstrations in North Devon.

PLACE, WEAPONS

Sir William is reported to have expressed a desire to throw Mrs. Norman off Ilfracombe Pier.

Wednesday Dunn sent a letter to the 50-year-old baronet offering to meet him at the pier on behalf of his sister-in-law.

"You have decided the place; I will decide the weapons," he told Sir William. "Hunting crops."

NIL DESPERANDUM

Sir William, whose coat of arms bears the motto Nil Desperandum, responded with more bewilderment than belligerence.

"I really don't know what this is all about," he told reporters.

"If I said anything about throwing Mrs. Norman off the pier it was only in a jocular manner.

"My ancestors have always been famous for their practical jokes."

CPR Makes Protest

Hundreds of 'Cars' Tied Up for Weeks

OTTAWA (CP) — Western grain-handling organizations tie up hundreds of boxcars for weeks at terminal elevator points by failing to unload them promptly, the Canadian Pacific Railway told the board of transport commissioners Wednesday.

F. J. Fryer of Montreal, CPR transportation chief, said a check of 558 cars made between Feb. 18 and April 30, 1957, showed each of the cars was held loaded at the Lakehead an average of 40.33 days.

The board is hearing an application by the railways to extend demurrage charges to include bulk grain. The charges are levied on all other commodities when railway cars are detained for more than 48 hours after arrival.

The railway's bid is being battled by the big elevator companies. Board hearings started almost two years ago.

France in Favor

'Other Camp Has Missiles Why Not Us?'

MISS NORMA CARMICHAEL
. . . earns honor

PARIS (AP) — The National Assembly Wednesday adopted by a vote of 343 to 224 a motion expressing confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's foreign policy.

The vote followed a two-day debate on foreign affairs.

It implied parliamentary approval of Gaillard's handling of East-West relations, the future installation of rocket launching bases in France and a series of North African problems ranging from French-Tunisian relations to French seizure of a Yugoslav cargo of arms allegedly consigned to the nationalist rebels in Algeria.

MILITARY NECESSITY

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau had told the deputies French defences must include launching ramps for missiles able to reach Soviet territory.

Gaillard supported Pineau in demanding rockets as a military necessity.

"Why should those in the other camp who possess these missiles already, and who doubtless have them already installed, forbid us to possess them ourselves?" Gaillard demanded.

He also said a prerequisite for any East-West summit meeting would be concrete promises by the Soviet Union that it would not seek new zones of influence.

Gaillard said the military problem in Algeria is practically solved and the rebellion would die out if let to itself. Then he lashed out at Tunisian aid for the Algerian rebel movement.

Pineau said "there is no national defence possible for a country which lets itself be outclassed in armaments."

Marchers Needed

At least 100 more "Marching Mothers" are needed for the Feb. 1 campaign in Greater Victoria for the B.C. Child Care and Polio Fund.

Volunteers are urgently needed in the Fountain Circle, Topaz Park and View Royal areas, to help meet the goal of $45,000.

The fund is asking $275,000 this month throughout the province to ensure continuation of the child care program.

Many women today are ignorant about their own emotional needs, according to Dr. Marion Hilliard, the well-known Canadian obstetrician and gynecologist. Too often women "confuse love with something quite different — passion."

Expenses, TV Sets, Golf Fees

'Civil Servants Bribed'

WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators claimed evidence yesterday that members of the Federal Communications Commission have accepted improper and in some cases illegal favors from the broadcasting industry.

Staff experts of a sub-committee investigating the FCC and five other government regulatory agencies said their study "indicates" FCC members have allowed the industry to pick up the tab for bills ranging from travel expenses and cafe cheques to free color television sets.

They made the charges in a report, released yesterday, which has thrown the sub-committee into a turmoil.

Bernard Schwartz, chief counsel and staff director for the sub-committee, said in a letter accompanying the report, the committee staff had uncovered evidence indicating FCC members allowed the broadcasting industry to pay bills for them and their wives while attending industry conventions.

These expenses included [illegible] valet service and golf fees, the report alleged.

The report said the evidence indicated commissioners also received color television sets and other communication equipment "for their personal use."

Proud Saanich Girl

Piper Redeems Ancient Pledge

By learning to play the bagpipes, a redheaded Saanichton lass retrieved from the provincial archives a set of pipes her great-great-uncle placed there years ago.

David Thomson, a member of the Saanich pioneer Thomson family, left the pipes in trust of the archives to be given to the first member of his family that could play them.

She is Miss Nancy Carmichael who will play them at a Burns Night in Shady Creek United Church at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The pipes date back to the Crimean War of 1853, Miss Carmichael said.

The piper who carried them, a man named Ross, later went with his unit to Lucknow, India, and later still to Ontario where the pipes eventually came into the possession of the Thomson family.

Because of a shortage of bagpipes, they came briefly out of the archives to be used by the Canadian Medical Corps pipe band during the Second World War.

Miss Carmichael said that constant care was required to keep the bagpipes in condition, including keeping the bag, a sheep's stomach, moist with a mixture of honey and whisky.

"There is a theory that you are supposed to put the honey in the bag, and then apply the whisky by drinking it and breathing through the pipes," she said. "But in this case, they were mixed and applied."

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

● Sprains

Q. Which is better for a sprain —hot or cold applications?

A. Cold for the first 24 to 48 hours, then hot. Just after a sprain the tissue in and around the joint has a tendency to bleed and become swollen. Cold applications help reduce bleeding and swelling. After a day or two hot applications can be used to help soothe the pain. If there is much swelling and pain, see your doctor. He may want to X-ray the injured joint.

Material in MEDICAL MIRROR is based on various scientific publications and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease requires the skill and knowledge which only a physician can apply by personally attending the patient.

B.C. Legislature Convenes

FULL ceremonies preserved by tradition and also appropriate to British Columbia's birthday year will attend the formal opening of the second session of the 25th Legislature today by Lieutenant Governor Ross. Politically, the Social Credit government under Premier W. A. C. Bennett is firmly in the saddle, with new members to seat as a result of by-elections in which the administration retained two seats, but failed to dislodge the CCF from one at Burnaby. There will be a new Speaker for the House to ratify before His Honor enters the legislative chamber to read the Speech from the Throne.

In the Speech the government will be expected to set out its main legislative intentions for the session. In three ways this session can be expected to differ from its predecessor. British Columbia is host to all Canada in its Centennial Year. There has been a change of government at Ottawa, with materially different relationships and policies respecting provincial matters. British Columbia, closely geared to production for export, like the rest of the nation is travelling in quieter economic times. In the province's own affairs the government has made headway in the resolution of doubts in implementing forest policy, notably through the recent appointment of Mr. Gordon Sloan.

The administration is being challenged in respect of the change made in taxation on mining enterprises, where the claim is that the result has adversely affected production in the base metals division. The municipalities have been asking for further review of their financial relationships with the province, partly as a result of the effect of changed assessments and partly on account of a sharp rise in school and other costs.

What the government's response will be on these or other issues no doubt will develop as the session gets down to its labors. Transcending politics and the economics of a changing time, however, remains the province's double-jubilee year and its invitation to the world to see for itself why no British Columbian need have other than firm hopes for the future. The Centennial Year preparations have been well made, and the administration has evoked from every B.C. community the co-operative spirit necessary to make this show-window effort a truly outstanding success. That fact alone, and there are other sound reasons for confidence, should cushion for British Columbia whatever pause there may be in the fast pace of progress this province has established. British Columbia has grown sturdily in the union of the provinces in Canada during one century.

Leaving None Out

NOT long ago Canada's second Book of Remembrance, recording the names of the nation's dead in the Second World War, was unveiled in Ottawa. This paralleled the memorial fashioned by the first Book of Remembrance, which contains the names of all those who fell in the First World War. An announcement by the veterans affairs minister states that two more books of this nature are planned.

One will include the names of those who gave their lives in the Korean campaign, some 425 names; the other will stretch back into history to list the fallen of two much earlier conflicts, the Nile Expedition of 1884-85 and the South African War of 1899-1902, about 275 names.

It may surprise those who think Canadian military history to be purely modern to find that representative forces took part in campaigns of the last century. In fact of course, apart from military activity in this country itself during its formative years, many Canadians served abroad with the British forces. In those days the British Army, and the Royal Navy, too, were the channels through which Canadians seeking a service career could follow their ambitions.

A conspicuous example, for instance, is that of Lieutenant Arthur Dunn of the 11th Hussars, the only officer to win a Victoria Cross during the famous Charge of the Light Brigade in the Crimea. Another Canadian VC winner of a century ago was Seaman Hall, captain of the foretop of HMS Shannon, whose gallantry was displayed at Lucknow during the Indian Mutiny.

These instances are a reminder that many Canadians served overseas in early British campaigns, and that some of these also gave their lives for Canada. No doubt it would be difficult to trace all of them, since they were serving individually and not in an identifiable Canadian contingent. Some effort might be made, however, in order that national Books of Remembrance may be as complete as it is possible for them to be. One would like to think that a fifth might be assembled, to include all those, either named or indicated, who otherwise will be left out of this collective tribute to their memory.

Curfew for Prowlers

SEATTLE'S new curfew law put into effect this week in an attempt to control juvenile waywardness has aroused interest in Vancouver and Victoria, but police activity under it is not likely to be copied in either city. The reason is not that police here believe youths and girls in their teens should be permitted to roam the streets at all hours of the night but that a curfew is one of the most difficult of all laws to enforce uniformly and fairly.

Interest in Seattle's experiment centres less on the restriction itself, which is nothing new, than on the situation it creates for the authorities. Victoria already has a curfew on the books, of which the only reminder is the nocturnal whistle from the brewery; but for the police to apply it would require a force many times the size of anything the city could afford to maintain.

The fact that a general curfew is deemed to be impracticable here, however, does not necessarily mean that a modified form would be unworkable as a way of giving the police greater control over juveniles who prowl the streets in cars late at night. Action in Seattle revives interest in the suggestion made not long ago that an ordinance forbidding juveniles unaccompanied by responsible adults to be abroad in cars after a certain hour would strengthen the hands of the police. Such a curfew could be enforced with discretion. Decently behaved young people on legitimate journeys need not be interfered with, but the troublesome elements habitually cruising the streets long after dark and obviously up to no good could be ordered home or if necessary arrested.

These are the cars which give the police the most trouble late at night and some toughening of the law is necessary to deal with them effectively. The attitude of "I'm doing nothing wrong; you can't touch me" is altogether too prevalent.

Interpreting the News:

Basic Difference Unchanged

By PAMELA MATTHEWS
Reuters Correspondent

DIPLOMATIC letters from the Kremlin have raised again those issues that have divided the world since the breakdown of the London meeting of foreign ministers in 1947.

The failure then of Britain, the United States, France and Russia to agree on plans for joint administration resulted in Germany's continued division.

The pattern of diplomacy between Moscow and the West has remained fundamentally constant. Each step toward West German statehood and the defence of Western Europe has attracted a Soviet diplomatic offensive aimed at checking the new move.

Repeated attempts to end the division of Germany have failed because neither bloc would jeopardize the support of those sections of the country originally occupied by its troops.

Rejection of Soviet warnings as in the case of West Germany's entry into NATO, have not resulted in any permanent deterioration of the fragile East-West contract.

In fact, the decision to bring West Germany into NATO was followed by the cordiality of the Geneva "summit" meeting. But neither East-West approaches, nor the steady consolidation of the two blocs has changed the insoluble character of the problem created by the failure to achieve joint East-West control of Germany in 1947.

The latest letters from Premier Bulganin to NATO countries and the Soviet notes to United Nations governments are regarded in London as repeating the history of 1954-55.

Their motive appears to be to halt the current stage of NATO's military policy—namely, the conversion of Western strategy to intermediate range ballistic missiles.

There remains the possibility that, as before, the West will agree to some form of high-level contract with Moscow following the decision to go ahead with the nuclear equipment of the West.

In throwing out feelers for a summit meeting, the Soviet leaders are emphasizing the new technical factors involved in the production of hydrogen and nuclear weapons, and of missiles and rockets.

To publicize the deterrent and horrific qualities of the new weapons, the Soviet government has chosen the use of published circular letters to the states of the world. But in essence, the diplomatic problem represented by the new round in the East-West struggle for Germany remains the same as it has been for the last 10 years.

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

EXCUSING a somewhat pontifical pamphlet on how to wash dishes issued by the U.S. government in 1952, the Milwaukee Journal points to a later example of bureaucratic literature, this time by the British ministry of pensions.

To wit: "In determining whether a person is a child, the prime consideration is his age."

A truly profound observation this, you might say, your tongue curled in sarcasm. Is not this the age of popular education?

And yet, you know, perhaps the bureaucrats have something.

At least as this writer grows older he finds it more difficult than ever to guess another's age. Either the years sit more lightly on people than formally, a tribute to their resilience in these days of high pressure, or it's the clothes they wear.

* * *

But these are not children, you object. No, they are not, although here again a birth certificate might well be needed. Young people are so up-and-coming that at a cursory glance a boy could seem about ten, and thus a child, or about 14 and thus one of the indeterminate group.

The latter are the teen-agers, and while granted no element of society stamps itself as less indeterminate these days, the teen-ager is not yet an adult. According to one's personal prejudice he might even be a child.

Grandma would address her 16-year-old granddaughter as "my child," that's for certain, even while dolling herself up so that from the back she might easily be taken for her granddaughter.

This indeed is one of the more delightful aspects of feminine fashion. Only the front view demonstrates the need for determination of age.

Men can scarcely match their opposite numbers in this respect, perhaps more's the pity. Their garments of camouflage are not so diverse or so convenient. They can make up for this in other ways, however.

* * *

A study of Hansard, for instance, is conducive to wonder at the age of some of those quoted. By all odds their birth certificates would proclaim them adults, yet the printed word exposes them to a suspicion of childishness. Certainly you'd never think, sometimes, that this was the record of mature adults concerned with mature deliberations.

One might be excused even for thinking that the current political manoeuvring at Ottawa has its childish aspect.

Recalling the sulks and sallies of nations these days, in fact, and their inability to get along together, the parallel with childhood is not complimentary to an adult world.

Children could scarce show more peevishness than do adults all too frequently.

There is perhaps something to be said, therefore, for a government pamphlet which finds age needful as a boundary line. Other considerations are too misleading.

A little bit of boy remains in every man, 'tis said. Maybe that's the trouble with us when we become adults. We are none too manly in our behaviour.

Reports from Ottawa

AFTER what happened on Monday, a backward look at the Liberal convention last week is intriguing. The pre-convention opinion that most Liberals were pinning their hopes on their new leader pulling a coup d'election in 1958 was not gainsaid by anything I saw or heard at the convention.

Indeed, after the tumult and hubbub following Lester Pearson's unsurprising victory had subsided, the first reflective comment I heard was one delegate asking another, "Well, do you think we picked a winner?"

* * *

This attitude puts Pearson on a spot like the one George Drew occupied in 1948. Like Drew, Pearson has a record of great success in another political field. Like Drew, Pearson was picked as the wonder boy who can lead the party quickly out of the wilderness. Like Drew, Pearson has to pull the hat trick in an election almost upon him or his party will be sharply disappointed in him.

In politics nothing succeeds like success. The shores of the political sea are strewn with the stranded hulks of the George Drews, John Brackens, Tom Deweys and Adlai Stevensons. But presumably Pearson took this risk into consideration when he stood for the leadership.

* * *

In the convention's first two days I had doubts that the meeting would engender fervor comparable to that of the Conservative convention. But in the end it did, in spite of tight control by the party brass.

Mind you, Bob Kidd and his Liberal Federation cohorts didn't gamble on spontaneous outbursts of enthusiasm. The placards boosting Pearson and Paul Martin, for example—"We Want Mike" and "We Can Win With Martin" were so obviously ordered, made for and paid for by the Liberal Federation that it was clear Messrs. Kidd & Co. had a big interest in making this terribly lop-sided contest look like a real fight. The signs were identical except for their messages. They were doled out before and collected after each demonstration by youths hired for the job. The brass wasted no money on Henderson signs.

* * *

What of the undercurrents of dissatisfaction among delegates as a whole, and the simmering resentment among young Liberals?

These certainly existed. A couple of back-bench Liberal MPs complained to me about the brass running things as though June 10 had never happened. Their particular targets were Duncan McTavish, Liberal Federation president, and former transport minister George Marler, who chaired the resolutions committee. The inference was that the party needs a housecleaning among the machine manipulators at the top, comparable to that among the party's political heads.

Many young Liberals went home feeling they had been given the brush-off. One Liberal senator described them to me as "college kids who just want to grab the microphone when the TV cameras are on." He spoke scornfully of one "who had 19 resolutions in his pocket, and wanted to speak on each one."

"You know what some of these kids wanted?" he asked. "They wanted a resolution to recognize Communist China. You can imagine what that would do to us." He shook his head. "They just don't realize a platform's to get in on."

* * *

In truth, the Grits had announced the convention would be wide open to new ideas. The gap must be bridged between brass and grass. Any delegate could move any motion from the floor. But in practice, not much time was allocated to floor resolutions. The brass had to have time for interminable speeches. And what resolutions were moved from the floor were shunted to Marler's committee without floor discussion. Most of them perished in committee without a trace.

One of the convention onlookers was the CCF MP Hazen Argue. He gloated openly. "Just the kind of agonizing Liberal reappraisal we'd hoped for," he chortled.

Night Runnin' Dogs

By GREGORY CLARK

ON a 2,000-mile lazy tour through the central and southern States I counted eighteen dead dogs along the roads. They had been killed, obviously, by cars. I am sorry to say four of the eighteen were beagles; for these little fellows, their noses to the hot scent, are entirely unaware of where they are going when, head down to the scent and bugle blowing, they race after their quarry. Such things as roads, highways, fast cars, they wot not of. They are the easiest and saddest of the victims of the road.

But eighteen dogs on a casual tour is an unseemly lot of dogs. I spoke to sundry natives of the south and got a variety of explanations. One colored man, a farmer, reminded me that this is the mating season for many dogs, and they are on the heedless prowl. Another man, with two coon hounds in his car, told me that there are more dogs, per capita of human population, in the south than anywhere perhaps on earth.

"Down heah," he said, "a man doesn't feel human without a dog."

He looked at his solemn hounds and added, apologetically:

"Two or three dogs."

* * *

A third man, a gas station operator, asked me if I had noticed many dogs, myself, running on the road. I said I had not.

"Most of those you see killed along the ditches," he said, "are night-runnin' dogs. We got a lot of night-runnin' dogs in the south."

The limp bodies along the road are a sad part of a southern tour.

On the Record

Managed Economy

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THIS column has the impression that the American people are, at present, much more concerned with the outlook for the American economy than with space ships, intercontinental guided missiles, or the

The concern is, of course, a matter of immediate and personal interest. Most people, here and elsewhere, do not contemplate a likelihood that the Soviet Union and its allies will launch an armed attack outside their present "spheres of interest" in order to Communize the world by force. The gains they have made since the Korean war have been by less costly and hazardous methods.

But national as well as personal interest is involved. A serious recession in America would offer the Communists the greatest conceivable political and economic weapon. It would knock out the foundations of our alliances and world-wide operations, all of which depend upon uninterrupted American prosperity.

* * *

A serious recession, should it get under way, would be accelerated by conditions that have become, it would seem, built in by the terrific American production capacity, its need for an ever-expanding internal market, and our people's concept of an "American standard of living"—which we have been publicizing throughout the world.

Americans are not currently living within their incomes. They are living in anticipation of an uninterrupted continuation of their present day cheques — and in the hope, at least, that these will increase.

* * *

Not only the government is failing to balance its budget and retire its debt, which now amounts to something over $1,500 for every man, woman and child. Our people also carry private debts of $191,000,000,000. In 1955 they were in debt for mortgages to the tune of $117,900,000,000; and for more or less durable consumers' goods (household equipment, cars, and today even vacations and trips abroad) to $73,200,000,000. If we assume that most of this indebtedness is carried by families it would mean, if apportioned among all of them, a family debt of some $3,900.

If, therefore, a serious recession should set in, an enormous number of people presently in a race to keep up with the Joneses and a jump ahead of the sheriff would be forced to dump masses of unpaid-for goods upon a diminished market.

* * *

To keep a high cost, high price, production surplus economy going and expanding to meet sedulously cultivated demands is infinitely harder and more precarious than to lift and expand a low price, low cost, production shortage economy, and a relatively primitive standard of living such as Russia's. The difficulties account for the highly heretical departures from "sound" capitalistic practices by the most successfully capitalistic countries.

A Republican president has just announced his intention to depart from them again. At his news conference last week he said he would not seek tax increases to balance the federal budget and indicated that, if necessary, he would prefer an increased deficit. A cut in the federal reserve discount rate to member banks is also in the making. To stimulate stock sales, the board has cut margins from 70 to 50 per cent, an encouragement to further private or corporate borrowing.

* * *

We have reached the stage where the one-time opponents of a managed economy, "government interference," and deficit spending now tremble in their boots at the slightest sign that the government might be disposed to let the economy take care of and right itself.

This column has bet for a long time on a continual, somewhat controlled inflation. The kind of economy we have predicates it, and we have the kind of economy our technology has created—and the kind most of us want. "Sound" money—and frugality—are gone with the wind.

But it's a hard world, psychologically and emotionally, for those brought up to believe that it's a virtue not to spend what you don't have.

With the Classics

Ah, such is Hope! as changeful and as fair!
Now dimly peering on the wistful sight;
Now hid behind the dragon-winged Despair
But soon emerging in her radiant might,
She o'er the sorrow-clouded breast of Care
Sails, like a meteor kindling in its flight.

—COLERIDGE.

Letters to the Editor

Could Be Ruinous

There has been considerable discussion in the press and in the various council chambers, regarding the operation of a fast ferry service from Sidney to the mainland. This is the present main project of the mayor of Victoria and has received enthusiastic support from everyone who has not taken a second look at it.

If we are to be the port of entry and departure for this service we should know exactly what type of vehicle is to be using our port facilities and roads.

A car and passenger service and light commercial vans would be one thing and I should imagine quite acceptable. But a commercial and industrial service with huge [illegible] diesel and otherwise—running back and forward on our roads and parking on Beacon Avenue would be ruinous to our village. Let us be quite emphatic about that.

The congestion on Beacon Avenue due to the present ordinary ferry line up—which of course may be moved elsewhere—is quite a different matter from having huge trucks, especially stinking diesels, parked all along there.

Also, would the city and provincial governments be prepared to help defray costs for the upkeep and repair of our roads, which are quite unsuited to such heavy traffic?

The operation of the former Motor Princess was quite within our port's capabilities and we were all sorry to see it ended. If it is a service similar to that, only larger in carrying capacity, yet within certain limits, only good would result.

But I hope the village council and the taxpayers will go into this matter thoroughly and make themselves heard, before we are swept away by the enthusiasms of those who do not live here, but are likely to gain mostly by it.

Taxes for What?

I should like to add my bit to the residents of Saanich who so naturally are indignant about the idiotic and unfair taxes in that vicinity. My family moved away for that very reason: taxes for improvements when there had been no improvements; land assessment shooting skyward in districts where there were, and still are, no proper road work, no sidewalks, no streetlights, no sewerage, inadequate fire protection. What in the name of all that's holy are the taxes for?

Now District 61 seems harder hit than anyone else, because of the schools. Why? What about the pensioners, the childless, the elderly people with grown-up and married children who have moved away—why should they pay for schools when other families with six or seven school-age children, living in rented houses, pay no taxes at all toward the education budget?

I say Saanich residents should flatly refuse to be victimized this way. The authorities would have a very thin time if the public really got together here.

Gross Impertinence

There is no doubt that unemployment has not been so bad as it is for a number of years. Nor is there any sign that this state of affairs is likely to alter materially in the very near future. Nevertheless, at this moment, we find men employed in "sheltered" occupations agitating for unreasonably large increases of wages and salaries.

To ask for a 20 per cent increase is to exhibit an ignorance of present-day economic conditions. To demand such an increase is to be guilty of gross impertinence.

Canada's Electronic Trainer

Discarded Project Cost $5,052,000

U.K. Supplied One At Just $900,000

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian-developed electronic trainer for the joint marine warfare school at Halifax that was abandoned after $5,052,000 was spent on it is being replaced by one from the United Kingdom costing $900,000, Defence Minister Pearkes informed the Commons Wednesday.

He gave some details about a project that cost about $6,000,000, including the price of the building the trainer was to be housed in. The building will be used eventually for the new electronic trainer.

The original trainer, ordered by the former Liberal government in 1952 from Computing Devices of Canada Limited, Ottawa, had cost $5,000,000 when it was cancelled in July, 1956.

Mr. Pearkes said an alternative trainer has since been ordered from the United Kingdom at a cost of $900,000. It would be installed after April 1.

The minister originally told the Commons the cost of the new trainer was $500,000, but he later changed this to $900,000.

The abandoned Canadian-produced trainer has since been turned over to the transport department, which has made arrangements for it to be converted by the same Canadian company into an air traffic control simulator.

The conversion was being paid for by the Civil Aviation Authority in the United States. It was expected to be completed in April and the trainer would be moved to Indianapolis where personnel of both the Canadian and U.S. authority would be trained in it.

It would be rented by the transport department to the U.S. authority for $1 a year.

Clown Saves His Daughter

Canada's Scientist Import 'Tragedy,' Says Shrum

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lack of scientists and technicians has forced Canada to scrap a multi-million-dollar guided missile project and import men from Britain to control atomic research, Dr. Gordon Shrum of the University of B.C. said Tuesday.

"It is a tragedy that we cannot produce enough scientists to meet our own requirements," said the dean, head of the UBC physics and graduate studies departments.

He said a guided air-to-air missile being developed in Canada had to be abandoned after millions of dollars had been spent on it because enough scientists and electronic engineers could not be found to carry on the work.

Practically all the scientists working at the Chalk River, Ont., atomic energy plant have been brought from Britain, he said.

Dr. Shrum said the real weakness in the Canadian educational system is that it does not consider merit in its teachers. It is impossible to get enough teachers when there is no difference in salary for those who have ability, he said.

Loot Worth $50,000 —But Not to Bandits

SOUTH MOUNTAIN, Ont. (CP)—Loot in a Monday midnight bank robbery here had a book value of $50,000, but officials said Wednesday the five masked bandits will get almost nothing for their pains. Most of the securities taken were non-negotiable.

Island Researchers To Study Seal Lore

NANAIMO—The Pacific Biological Station at Departure Bay is going into the seal business for the first time.

Biologists at the station will shortly begin work on the study of seals following an agreement between the United States, Russia, Japan, and Canada.

The seal expedition, to be centred mainly fairly close to the British Columbia coast, will be headed by Gordon Pike.

Migratory and eating habits will be studied, and specimens will be caught and brought back to the Departure Bay station for observation and examination.

Dr. A. W. H. Needler said yesterday that the program is completely new and not yet fully developed. At present, it is scheduled for about three months. Only Mr. Pike and one assistant, in addition to the boat crew, will go on the first expedition.

Studies are made by the four countries in the interests of fur seal conservation.

"Hair" questions answered
MR. J. B.—
Yes, many cases of baldness are hereditary . . . but most cases are a result of poor hair care. "Choking" is dynamite for your hair. By this I mean anything which prevents your scalp from breathing. Don't wear a hat or cap if you don't have to. Also, don't use grease to keep your hair down. It clogs the pores.

'Stop Teaching Junk, Nonsense'

PROF. GORDON HUSON
. . . told to speed up

VANCOUVER—"Junk and nonsense" courses such as driver training, hygiene and religion should be thrown out of the school curriculum, says noted scientist Dr. Leon Katz.

The University of Saskatchewan physicist said such subjects should be taught outside schools to permit Canadian schools more concentration on science.

"Our churches have failed to teach religion to the children and in a democracy it's wrong to teach religion to a captive audience," said Dr. Katz.

"Our mothers failed to teach their children how to brush their teeth and wash their hands — so we put hygine into our curricula.

"Our courts have failed to throw the book at drivers who race around killing people, so we teach our little darlings how to drive in school."

You Can Buy A New Face

Reporting that plastic surgeons from Montreal to Vancouver regularly perform cosmetic surgery, Jeannine Locke predicts in the current issue of Chatelaine Magazine that "in ten years or so it's not at all unlikely that Canadian women will be ordering new noses as casually as they now arrange to have teeth straightened."

What sort of person undergoes cosmetic surgery? How much does it cost? And why are some women refused a surgical "new look"? For the full story of how you can buy a new face, get the February issue of Chatelaine Magazine. On sale at all newsstands, January 23rd. Be sure you get your copy. Only 20c.

Vote-Padding

Election Worker Acquitted

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Kathleen Vollum, 50, Wednesday was acquitted on two charges of forgery and two of uttering in alleged vote-padding in Toronto's St. Paul's riding during last June's federal election.

Mrs. Vollum, who worked in Liberal party offices, was accused of making false applications to have names added to voters' lists.

Mrs. Vollum testified a friend, Mrs. Nora Conacher Gamble, a Liberal party worker, told her it was all right to sign applicants' names.

She said she only did what she was instructed to do. "There were no false intentions on my part whatsoever."

Mrs. Gamble and George Ewing, 57, face similar charges.

Of five persons originally charged, two have been convicted. Thomas Middleton, 48, was sentenced to six months in jail and Bernice Price, 27, was sentenced to one-month and a $300 fine.

Canada Eyes Atom-Driven Ice-Breaker

SELSNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Canada is studying the possibilities of building an atom-powered ice-breaker, Transport Minister Hees said Wednesday night.

Russia launched an atomic ice-breaker, named the Lenin, last year—first country in the world to harness nuclear power for ice-breaking duties.

Canada's study will be made by a committee soon to be established by the transport department, Mr. Hees announced at a joint session of the Dominion Marine Association and United States Carriers Association, representing the inland shipping industry.

The committee will investigate nuclear propulsion "with a view to application of nuclear power to Canadian ice-breakers in the future." It will also work with private Canadian companies interested in nuclear-powered ships for general commercial use.

Klansman Convicted

'You Came with Gun'

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—An Indian judge yesterday convicted a Ku Klux Klansman of carrying a concealed weapon and of public drunkenness at a KKK rally near here last Saturday night — a rally broken up by shots fired by angry Indians.

Judge Lacy Manor gave Klansman James Garland Martin of Reidsville, N.C., a lecture before giving him a 60-day suspended sentence upon payment of a $60 fine and court costs. It could have been two years and $100 fine and costs.

"You came into a community where there is a happy, contented people who frown on violence," the 55-year-old judge told Martin, who, with about 50 others, had been chased off a field by a band of Lumbee Indians. "You came with a gun. Obviously you did not bring good-will."

Snow Sweeps Over Europe

LONDON (Reuters) — Snow hit Western Europe Wednesday, knocking transportation off stride and disrupting the work-a-day world from Norway to Italy.

Tumbling temperatures added to the chaos by icing highways and making miserable the occupants of the many buildings without central heating.

Norwegian rescue gangs worked with dynamite and bulldozers to free more than 200 persons isolated near Trondheim by a giant ice barricade. The ice stacked up on a dam across the Nea River, causing a flood which at one point froze into a 13-foot-deep barrier.

Blizzards brought avalanches down the mountains of southern Austria, blocking roads and halting buses.

France also froze, with the Moselle region in the northeast hardest hit. Even the Riviera resorts along the Mediterranean coast suffered from low temperatures.

Wind whipped snow across the flat countryside of Holland bringing drifts up to six feet deep.

In Italy, the mercury slumped to the freezing point in many places.

Britain experienced one of the worst cold snaps in a decade.

Sperm whales usually run in large schools, numbering perhaps several hundred.

Romance Blooms Again After 54-Year Breakup

WORTHING, Eng. (Reuters)—William Davison and Nellie Gregory—both 80—got married Wednesday after having broken off their courtship. The split-up occurred in 1904. They hadn't seen each other in 54 years when they met and romance flowered again.

Lone Franciscan

Using a primitive hoe, Brother Francois cultivates his vegetable garden in his one-room Franciscan monastery in the Judean hills outside Jerusalem. The friar's garden is irrigated by a small stream, where legend says, John the Baptist found wild honey. Brother Francois, a former French diplomat, entered the Franciscan order last year.

Capone's Cadillac Auctioned

MANCHESTER, England (UP) — Dancehall proprietor Tony Stuart bought the late Al Capone's $8,500 bullet-proof Cadillac, at auction yesterday for $535. He planned to ship it back to the United States to resell it.

Stuart outbid half a dozen dealers at the Bellevue fairgrounds, where the car has been in storage since 1942.

He said he thought he could make a "handsome profit" on it by shipping it back to New York and advertising it for sale.

REAR WINDOW

The 1928 car came complete with bullet-proof windows, a police siren, an oversized engine and a rear window that opens on hinges to make it easier to fire a machine-gun at pursuing cars.

It was brought to England during the Second World War by a showman who sold it to a Blackpool fun fair for $384.

Scientist Doubts Snowman

MOSCOW (UP)—A prominent Soviet scientist yesterday took sharp issue with a colleague who claimed he saw two "abominable snowmen" with his own eyes in Soviet Asia.

"I do not think there are any real facts to support the theory of the snowman," scientist A. Letavet said in an article in the English - language Moscow News.

Alexander Pronin of Leningrad University had reported he twice saw the snowmen during an expedition to the Pamir Mountains of central Asia last August. The university plans to send an expedition to the Pamirs this year to attempt to trap one of the legendary snowmen.

Kitimat Hospital Given Go-Ahead

Health Minister Eric Martin said yesterday he has approved the calling for tenders for the construction of the new 113-bed hospital at Kitimat. Construction should start in early spring and be completed in 18 months.

Led by Dome, Golds Only Day's Winners

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market had trouble deciding which way to go and at the close it was mixed with a majority of issues on the downside.

Industrials, base metals and western oils all had minor index losses but each section had a few fair-sized gains sprinkled through a list of narrow losses. Golds, with Dome Mines gaining ¾ at 13¼, recorded an index gain of three-quarters of a point.

New Mylamaque, for the fourth straight day, was the most active stock on the board, trading 881,993 shares while losing 6½ cents to 23½.

Feature among industrials was Winnipeg and Central Gas which lost $1.75 to close at $3.25. At one time in the session it touched $2.90 and during the day traded 72,040 shares.

Steels were quietly higher among industrial groupings but other sections had at least as many losses as gains. Aluminium lost a point at 27½.

Western oils were featured by American Leduc, down five cents amid a volume of 102,000 shares.

Winnipeg Gas Slumps

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were mixed to lower in moderate trading.

Winnipeg and Central Gas held the spotlight, declining $3.70 to $3.30. It touched a new low of $3.25 during the day.

Refining oils were generally lower. International Petroleum dropped a point to 35¼. Bank of Montreal slipped ⅜ to 40⅞ in a steady banking section.

Base metal, construction, beverage and miscellaneous stocks were mixed. Aluminium declined ¾ to 27¾ and International Nickel improved ½ to 70.

Mines and oils were down.

United Oils lost 11 cents at 2.30 and Westburne 9 cents at 61. Gunnar was off a point at 14.

Defence Issues Sold

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks moved irregularly in the face of a broad easing of money by the federal reserve and commercial banks.

Traders bought tobaccos and sold defence issues. Weakness in the latter brought some realtzing elsewhere late in the day.

There was no apparent reason for sales of the aircrafts where Douglas lost 2 points and the shipbuilders where declines ranged to more than a point in Newport News and Bath Iron Works.

Dividend cuts hurt several issues but a dividend deferment by Pennsylvania Railroad hurt that issue only slightly. Rails produced a few firm spots, including Norfolk & Western and Atlantic Coast Line.

Several special issues scored wide gains and held them. Utilities and steels were firm as groups with a few issues easier. Chemicals dipped in most instances. Motors lost small fractions.

Industrials Gain

VANCOUVER—Crown Zellerbach Canada closed higher at $15 while Alberta Distillers added 5 cents at 1.55 to boost the industrial average.

Mines did little with Bralorne 3.65; Pacific Nickel 76 cents, Caribou Gold 52 cents, Cowichan Copper 77, cents and Trojan 12½ cents.

In oils United Oil rights trading for the first time closed strong at 14 cents with the stock 2.30 ex rights.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Liberal selling appeared in all grains, especially flax and rye.

Both flax and rye showed wide declines and new seasonal lows were recorded in some months. Barley also eased off to new seasonal lows in some months.

Export houses were fairly good buyers of flax on recessions and trade reports indicate the export of 460,000 bushels of flax to East Germany in the last few days.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat: United Kingdom, 530,000 bushels, Japan 450,000. The Netherlands 375,000, Switzerland 210,000 and Venezuela 20,000.

CHICAGO (AP)—Liquidation and stop-less selling accounted for dips in grain futures prices.

Wheat was off more than a cent a bushel most of the session despite a pickup in export demand. All corn deliveries and most oats contracts hit lows for the season.

Rye, affected by weakness in other grains, was off as much as four cents a bushel at one time and soybeans were down a cent or more a bushel.

"Where Quality Costs No More"

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

One of the features of the case of Colin Kilburn versus the directors of the Victoria Cougars has been the tremendous backwash of misinformation from Vancouver sources who obviously have not the slightest knowledge of the circumstances and continue to build up hearsay and guesses into ridiculous reports.

It is not now, and never has been, the intention here of taking sides in the dispute but I would like to take issue with a Vancouver writer who has been columnizing often about the Kilburn story and intimating strongly that Victoria press and radio reporters were remiss in not going all out in defence of Kilburn. It is the thought here that news sources in Victoria have all handled the case in the best possible way. Both sides have been given the opportunity of having their say and any words that I have read or remarks I have heard have been extremely fair. A lot fairer than the rumors reported by the Vancouver critic.

Yesterday this critic wrote as follows: "His (Kilburn's) dismissal as playing manager of the Victoria club 10 days ago had nothing to do with his ability. A Victoria shareholder, visiting here, said: 'Kilburn was fired because he barred an executive director from the Cougar dressing-room during games.' . . . H-m-m-m. Some executives think they have to direct everything, even traffic to the men's room."

Statements like that, of course, surely need no comment.

* * *

The same writer also wrote that "Phoney deals continue to mottle hockey's complexion. It was announced last week that the Edmonton Flyers traded Dennis Olson and Tom McCarthy to Victoria for Colin Kilburn. Strictly a stop-gap deal. When the winter ends Kilburn will revert to Victoria because he is still Cougar property. Olson and McCarthy? They are still owned by the Detroit Red Wings, who had merely farmed the pair to Edmonton."

This is a revelation? I don't know how the deal was reported in Vancouver but the story broke in Victoria and it was reported thusly last Saturday morning—"Victoria Cougars have traded former general-manager Colin Kilburn to Edmonton Flyers FOR THE BALANCE OF THIS SEASON in exchange for a pair of highly-regarded forwards . . ."

The story went on to emphasize that the deal was only for the rest of this season and that the three players involved would return to their original clubs.

Yesterday, another Vancouver writer reported that no coast section club had a chance to get Kilburn because Cougar officials didn't want their ex-manager to be around to "constantly" haunt them. This was the reason, it was intimated, that Kilburn wound up with Edmonton, when both Vancouver Canucks and New Westminster Royals made bids.

Even manager-coach Hal Laycoe got into the Vancouver act. He was quoted as saying that he feels the Flyers will eventually catch Winnipeg Warriors and win the Eastern Division championship, something many hockey followers have never quit thinking. Laycoe cited several "smart moves," particularly the acquisition of Kilburn, as his reasons for the thought.

This one, it seems, left Laycoe wide open for rebuttal. Any unbiased hockey fan will readily admit that Kilburn is a good player, good enough to help any club in minor professional hockey and, perhaps, several in the National Hockey League. But the same fan will also agree that the Cougars did right well in obtaining the services of two players of the calibre of Olson and McCarthy for their former manager.

* * *

Laycoe would probably jump at the chance, if he could believe it, to trade defenceman John Yanchuk and forward Gary Edmundson to the Flyers for Olson and McCarthy, even if it was only for the balance of the season. But the New Westminster manager, Cougar-coach Pat Egan reports, turned down the chance to trade Yanchuk, who couldn't find a place with the Royals and was loaned to Victoria, and Edmundson to the Cougars for Kilburn. For keeps. If Laycoe doesn't think he would have had the best of that one, he's one of very few.

Canucks and Seattle Americans could also have acquired Kilburn for a reasonable return in playing talent. The Canucks offered Elliott Chorley and, understandably, were asked to sweeten the pot. The Americans had nothing to offer except their untouchables—Guyle Fielder, Ray Kinasewich and Val Fonteyne.

I suppose in controversial cases such as the dismissal of Kilburn there is bound to be a flood of rumor and speculation but there is no need for obviously implausible rumor or silly speculation. For better or worse, the thing has been done and there is little chance for hockey here if it is undone, or bitterness prevails to the extent that personalities take precedence over the game.

Although he's only a freshman at Spokane's Gonzaga University, 20-year-old French-born Jean Claude Lefebre is the tallest college basketball player in the United States at seven feet, three inches. Still needing more experience, Lefebre has scored 73 points in nine games for the frosh team. Here, Lefebre towers over teammate Chuck Redmond, who is five feet, nine inches tall.

Cougars Renew Anderson Bid; Flyers Start Tour with Draw

Although their playoff chances are indeed no more than mathematical, Victoria Cougars are continuing their efforts to strengthen for a stretch drive which they hope might at least worry the club nearest them.

Coach Pat Egan announced yesterday that he will attempt to persuade centre Doug Anderson to come out of retirement and join the Cougars for the balance of the season.

Next game: Tonight, Winnipeg at Saskatoon.

Anderson, a 30-year-old veteran of five seasons with Victoria, didn't turn out this season and was holidaying in Hawaii when the first game was played. An earlier effort was made to have him rejoin the club when he returned to the city but he couldn't come to terms with the club.

"Sure, he can help us," Egan said yesterday. "He's a fellow who is never very far out of condition and it shouldn't take long before he is ready to play at top speed."

At the same time, Egan announced that the Cougars have asked waivers on Doug Kilburn. The Victoria club has to cut a player to get down to the league limit of 15 and has decided to keep all six defencemen with Bud Syverson likely to continue to see action as a winger. The younger Kilburn scored eight goals and had nine assists in the 38 games he has played.

Meanwhile, the Cougars continued to prepare for Saturday's game at Memorial Arena against Edmonton Flyers, who started their trip around the Western Division of the Western Hockey League last night by playing to a 2-2 overtime tie with the Royals at New Westminster.

COLIN SCORES

Of particular interest to the Cougars in this game was the fact that ex-manager Colin Kilburn opened the scoring for Edmonton. It was his second goal and fourth point in two games with his new club.

About 3,000 fans saw a wide-open, pleasing game which featured end-to-end play and spectacular goaling by both Bev Bentley of the Royals and Edmonton's Dennis Riggin.

Both saved the day time and again and each came up with a brilliant save in the overtime period, Riggin sprawling to prolong the game at the three-minute mark to balk Arlo Goodwin and Bentley giving the Royals a point by outguessing Cummy Burton a minute later.

Kilburn opened the scoring at 11.40 when he caught the short side with a 20-footer after Gerry Melnyk and Chuck Holmes had combined to give him the chance. Jut more than a minute later, Len Lunde finished off a play with Hugh Coflin to give the Flyers a 2-0 lead.

Royals sliced the lead in two during a second-period penalty to Edmonton defenceman Jack Hendrickson. Steve Hrymnak getting the puck past Riggin, Goodwin forced overtime early in the third period, tipping in a relay from Max McNab.

Hockey Greats

Memories were relived and acquaintances renewed at Vancouver Monday when some of hockey's all-time greats met in an oldetimers' game. Habs Blank Scrappy Leafs; Armstrong Run Out of Rink

TORONTO—Montreal Canadiens, almost out of sight in the National Hockey League, got a rougher time than usual from Toronto Maple Leafs here last night, but blanked the Leafs 2-0, to move 19 points in front of the idle New York Rangers.

League scoring leader Dickie Moore, who seems to be twice as dangerous against the Leafs, scored his 25th goal of the season and his ninth against Toronto at 14.04 of the third period. Then big Jean Beliveau, left open in front of Ed Chadwick, added an insurance goal at 17.21.

The NHL's new get-tough policy with players who dispute penalties was never more in evidence than in last night's roughhouse game, played before 13,734 fans. Referee Frank Udvari called 12 minors, eight to Montreal, three 10-minute misconducts and one game misconduct.

	GP	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
Montreal	45	30	10	5	170	97	65

Chicago	45	15	22	8	89	117	38

Last night's score: Montreal 2 at Toronto 0.
Next game: Tonight, Chicago at Boston.

Storm centre of the night was captain George Armstrong of the Leafs recently reported to be up for trading purposes along with goalie Ed Chadwick.

Armstrong got a minor penalty for hooking at 14.07 of the second period, and a 10-minute misconduct was added when he berated Udvari for what he considered a poor call.

Armstrong went wild at that, screaming at Udvari from the penalty box. He was nailed with a game misconduct and ordered from the rink, but had to be escorted out by linesman George Hayes to keep him from going after the referee.

The incident will be reported to league president Clarence Campbell and Armstrong will pay at least $75 in fines.

GEOFFRION POINTLESS

Bert Olmstead of the Canadiens got a misconduct penalty for arguing a call in the first period and Bernie "Boom-Boom" Geoffrion, held without a point for the first time in many a game, got one for arguing in the second period.

Canadiens were given a bit of a scare in the second period when Ron Stewart of the Leafs let go a bullet drive that hit goalie Jacques Plante in the groin. Plante jack-knifed to the ice, and the game had to be delayed for 10 minutes while he recovered. However, he came back to post his seventh shutout of the season, tops in the NHL.

Leafs, down to nine forwards through injuries, recalled Earl Balfour from Rochester Americans of the American League for last night's game.

Leafs have also withdrawn their claim to defenceman Jack Bionda, an ex-Leaf whom they claimed when Boston Bruins attempted to waive him out of the NHL. Bionda is now with Springfield Indians of the AHL.

Finney Leads Stamps To Win Over Canucks

CALGARY— Calgary Stampeders, with veteran Sid Finney figuring in all their goals, defeated Vancouver Cannucks, 4-2, before 3,888 fans here last night to move within a single point of third place in the prairie division of the Western Hockey League.

Finney scored two goals, including the winner, and made the play for the other two, scored by Dave Duke and Chuck Blair. Ron Hutchinson and Bob Robinson got the Vancouver goals.

The game was a rough-and-ready affair in which Calgary defenceman Mid Houghton was carried from the ice with concussion late in the first period. Houghton was boarded by B. Dobbyn of the Canucks.

Stampeders had a wide edge in the play, and Marcel Pelletier had to make 14 of his 27 stops in the first period. Al Rollins faced only 14 shots all night.

Stamps were strengthened by the return of veteran defenceman Art Michaluk, who came out of retirement to help the injury-riddled club and turned in a standout performance.

Finney scored the winner at 6.53 of the third period while Jim Powers of the Canucks was in the penalty box.

Centres Setting Hot Pace In Western Scoring Derby

Centres continue to dominate the Western Hockey League scoring race, holding down the first six positions at the end of last night's games.

Slowed down of late, Seattle's Guyle Fielder is still on top with a comfortable 10-point lead over Victoria's Ed Dorohoy and Phil Maloney of Vancouver, who both have 54 points.

Gaining steadily is Len Lunde, sophomore star of the Edmonton Flyers who is only two points out of a second-place tie with his 27 goals and 25 assists. Calgary's Sid Finney jumped into fifth place last night with two goals and two assists and rookie Art Stratton of the Winnipeg Warriors is another point back.

Fielder is the leading playmaker, his 50 assists being 20 more than any other player has accumulated. Linemate Ray Kinasewich leads in goals with 29. Close up are Lunde with his 27, Dorohoy and Finney with 26 each, and Bill Mosienko of Winnipeg with 25.

Victoria High School teams won two Inter-High School Soccer League games yesterday, edging the Hornets, 2-1, in senior "A" action at Mount View High School, and defeating Oak Bay High, 5-2, in a senior "B" match on the Victoria High pitch.

Ernie Bynell and Eric Robinson booted two goals each for the senior "B" club and Les Brice scored once. For the Bays it was Bill Semeym and John Isherwood with a goal apiece.

At Mount View, Victoria High had a tougher time, but got off to a 2-0 half-time lead on a goal by Tom Collett and a penalty kick by Tom Wyatt. Glen Robbins broke Robin Barnes' shutout bid in the second half.

In Monday's action, Victoria High swamped Mount View, 9-1, while Esquimalt and Mt. Douglas played to a 1-1 draw. Centre-half Steve Holborn scored four goals to lead the Victoria High attack.

Esquimalt won its second straight game in the Girls' Inter-High School Basketball League yesterday, defeating Mt. Douglas, 24-17. In the other two league games played yesterday, Victoria High defeated Oak Bay, 22-16, and St. Margaret's downed St. Ann's, 27-12.

Warriors Win Protest; Referee Made Mistake

WINNIPEG—Winnipeg Warriors, setting the pace in the prairie division of the Western Hockey League, will get another chance to reverse an overtime defeat at the hands of Saskatoon-St. Paul on January 11th.

League president Al Leader announced yesterday that Warriors' protest of their 5-4 defeat has been upheld and that the game will be replayed from the 5.40 mark of the third period with Winnipeg leading 4-2.

Leader allowed the protest following reports that referee Vic Paradice had made an error by not stopping play immediately when Regal player Vic Lynn committed a penalty.

Instead, Paradice signalled the penalty and before he stopped play the Regals scored a goal.

Marksmen Meet

Annual general meeting of the Victoria and District Rifle Association will be held on Thursday, January 30, in the spare mess at Bay Street Armory starting at 8 p.m.

Chief order of business will be election of officers. Outside units have been invited and anyone interested is welcome to attend.

Women Braver Than Men—at Least in Hong Kong

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—As one who has stared in awe at women rasslers, Russia's economy-sized female shot putters and lady cab drivers, Fearless Fraley can tell you that women are braver than men.

One man, anyhow.

That one is old Fearless. And I can attest to this after receiving a letter from Hong Kong in which a fairway filly of the American colony there indignantly denies the dangers of shooting par and Chinese panthers at the Royal Hong Kong Golf Club.

Noted as the world's bravest coward, old Fearless played there recently and survived one complete hole. My companion cautioned me that there was a tiger loose in the neighborhood, deadly bamboo snakes made the rough extra hazardous and, honest to Betsy, a cobra curled up around my ball in a sand trap just like one of Grandma's old settin' hens.

To complicate matters, a British tank outfit was holding manoeuvres on the course while an officer galloped hither and yon directing whatever it is that tank outfits do when they're on manoeuvres.

But a lady named Phyllis Coombs got all shook up about it. And I have at hand a clipping of a discussion she had with a writing lady named Alison Bell.

"This sort of thing alarms the folks at home," Miss Coombs protested. "Who ever has seen a tiger at Fanling?"

Fanling, I presume, is the Royal Hong Kong golf course. If so, I didn't. But those tracks in the sand trap were made by the largest kitten in the whole world.

"And who," she asked again, "ever saw a cobra sitting on a golf ball like a hen hatching an egg?"

Please, Ma'am, I did. But her succeeding conversation proved that the lady was quibbling—and that gals are braver than boys.

"We were delayed on the fourth tee while Mrs. Wicks killed a snake in the fairway ahead of us," Miss Bell told Miss Coombs.

"Oh, sure, there are snakes," Miss Coombs poo-poohed. "In fact, my partner and I killed a family of five one day moving across the green single file. After we putted out, four more appeared.

"But," she added, "we were holding up the players behind us so we had to move along. Anyhow—they were just cobras, not the deadly bamboo snakes."

That, according to my arithmetic, comes to nine cobras around one green.

But the irate Miss Coombs was distracted at this point.

"When Mrs. Wicks killed the snake," she asked Miss Bell, "what club did she use?"

"I," she added, "find an eight iron the best for disposing of cobras."

So, you can see if you are one of Miss Coombs' fearful kin-folk, there isn't anything to worry about when she plays golf in Hong Kong. Even a tiger would think twice about facing a furious female with an exasperated eight iron.

First Test Featured By 755-Minute Stand

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters)—A magnificent innings of 270 runs not out by 24-year-old Hanif Mohammad helped Pakistan continue its recovery against the West Indies in first cricket test here.

At the close Pakistan had scored 525 for three in their second innings and led by 52 runs. The six-day match ends today.

Hanif has defied the West Indies' attack for 755 minutes to become Pakistan's highest test scorer.

His stay at the wicket is 45 minutes short of Len Hutton's record stay of 13 hours, 20 minutes for tests.

Saeed Ahmed's 65 in 263 minutes is the slowest on record for test matches—the nearest being 71 by Trevor Bailey in 255 minutes against the Australians at Lords in 1953.

Judge Begbie Gets Reprieve

VANCOUVER (CP)—The National Film Board is shooting a revised version of its controversial film on the life of Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie, B.C.'s first judge.

Justice Minister Davie Fulton says the new title is "The Legendary Judge." The original title, "The Hanging Judge," drew complaints from several B.C. historians.

New version, said Mr. Fulton, will show Sir Matthew as a forceful man who instituted the rule of law and British justice on the West Coast.

Peel and slice apples into greased baking dish, sprinkle with the ¼ cup sugar and spices. Add the water and lemon juice. Combine brown sugar and flour, work in shortening to make a crumbly mixture.

BAKED APPLE PUDDING

[illegible]

Sift together flour, soda, spices and salt. Mix butter with sugar, beat until very light and fluffy. Add unbeaten egg, mix well. Add grated apple. Add flour mixture, stirring just until mixed.

Pour into greased 8-inch square pan. Bake in hot oven 400° F. about 25 minutes or until done. Serve warm with vanilla or rum sauce. Makes about 8 servings.

B.C. BAKED APPLE

Select uniform apples. Wash, remove core and score all around about ⅓ from the top, or peel the top third of the apple.

Place apples in shallow baking pan, add syrup made by boiling ½ cup sugar and ⅔ cup water for 5 minutes. Bake in 350° F. oven for 45 to 60 minutes, or until easily pierced with fork. Baste occasionally during baking.

For variation fill the centres of the apples with different fillings, such as raisins, dried fruits and nuts, marshmallows or mincemeat. Bake as above.

A new club formed by young people to provide youth activities decided at its opening meeting to keep clear of the word "teen-age" because it has become associated with juvenile delinquency.

The group chose the name "Prince Rupert Club" and applied for permission to use the civic centre on Sunday afternoons. The request was granted on a trial basis.

Pack Lunch Box Meal With Nutritional Food

It's a long time since we talked about the all-important [illegible] lunch box. Actually I have the school children in mind this morning though many of these suggestions might well be of use to those many wives and mothers who pack a lunch for their menfolk.

These days people of all types and ages take their lunch to job or school. A group of office workers told me they did it to save money, others say there is no decent place to eat in the neighborhood where they work, but goodly good nearly more than one tells me they like a light lunch but one which is nutritionally sound and that's why they take their own. Now we're talking the same language.

This midday meal must certainly be more than a snack. It should comprise one third of the nourishment requirements for the day. If breakfast is skimped, but let's hope it isn't, the lunch box meal must compensate. And since lunch box hours of necessity occupy a short space, be sure each item [illegible]

[illegible] but just put buttered slices together.

One generous serving of pro[illegible] or otherwise is a treat. Here your imagination can run riot. For instance by mixing a little tomato ketchup with peanut butter your child won't know what he's eating but it's good.

And cold sliced meat as a filler is no great shakes but if you grind it up with a dill pickle and moisten it slightly with leftover gravy the sandwich is much more appealing. While on this subject of fillings here are two rather unusual suggestions not suitable for youngsters but certainly for the high school group.

SPANISH SANDWICH SPREAD

[illegible] tablespoons chopped [illegible] 1 tablespoon butter 1 [illegible] black olives [illegible] 1 [illegible] chopped [illegible] 1 egg well beaten [illegible] grated cheese, salt and pepper.

Stone the olives, cut the fat fo[illegible] few minutes. Add [illegible] these and seasonings and cook very gently till cheese is melted. Stir a small amount of the mix[illegible] into the egg [illegible] and cook [illegible] Store in a covered jar in refrigerator till needed for sandwiches.

SARDINE FILLING

One cup mashed sardines ½ cup chopped stuffed olives 1 teaspoon grated onion 1 tablespoon lemon juice a little mayonnaise to moisten.

Combine all ingredients but instead of making plain sandwiches which would go rather soggy why not put some of it into a small container. Then pack buttered bread or rolls along with it plus a small spreader and let that hungry [illegible] make up her own sardine sandwiches.

There's simply heaps more to say on this subject of lunch boxes. We've just scratched the surface this morning.

It doesn't seem quite fair to carry on [illegible] as it is [illegible] a percentage of the readers who are interested in the problem but we will certainly do so [illegible] next week.

Here's a [illegible] for use at home which will [illegible] and old alike . . .

FRUIT SALAD ON STICKS

[illegible] drinking straws or [illegible] sticks. Peel several small oranges and cut them into rather thick slices. Arrange alternately slices of orange and [illegible] each stick, starting and ending with an orange circle. Top the stick with either a [illegible] grape or a maraschino cherry. If used up into [illegible] and serve [illegible] each [illegible]

Gold in Marigolds!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

We started off yesterday to do a little browsing through the new seed and plant catalogues to find out what's new and interesting in the [illegible] eye.

Most seedsmen and hybridizers specialize to some extent in one or two specific races of flowers or vegetables and the Burpee people have devoted considerable space on their Fordhook farm in California to the development of new marigolds [illegible] Hence they were the first to produce a hybrid marigold a hybrid between the French and African kinds and a marigold with odd-[illegible] foliage.

The new Burpee catalogue announces [illegible] Moon marigolds [illegible] of 20 weeks of crescent-[illegible] and deep orange and the flowers are [illegible] as deep with deeply ruffled and frilled petals. The plants stand [illegible] feet a hedge and flower [illegible] frost. The seeds are very horribly expensive [illegible]

Incidentally [illegible] and offering an award of $[illegible] to the home gardener [illegible] them with seeds which produce a petunia as big as the Marigold Moon marigold.

I can still remember the [illegible] greatest some years ago when the petunia King Chief first made its appearance. This was at that [illegible] dwarf plant dwarf and compact and bearing great masses of blooms of a striking fire engine red.

Japanese hybridizers the [illegible] produce a double petunia. [illegible] doing some interesting work with King Chief and have [illegible] generation [illegible] the beans to [illegible] blooms which [illegible] color of Vanilla [illegible] were the petals [illegible] glittering [illegible] for edging a [illegible] bed and for the window boxes and [illegible]

I send for the supposedly [illegible] last winter for seeds of the same award prize [illegible] to me high [illegible] engrossed [illegible] and [illegible] flowers of many [illegible] and shades.

The seeds [illegible] a satisfactory [illegible] spring [illegible] and [illegible] forward [illegible] the back fence [illegible] with the [illegible] and [illegible] Aid.

A new edging plant which [illegible] Blue Mine. Ageratums [illegible] and [illegible] in the case of Blue Mine [illegible] the other [illegible] patterns. [illegible] from the [illegible] the effect of making the [illegible] more [illegible] and [illegible] plants.

[illegible] Blue Mine [illegible] well [illegible] I'm [illegible] I [illegible] the [illegible] I [illegible] the [illegible] I [illegible] the [illegible] I [illegible] I [illegible] I [illegible] I know [illegible] I know what I [illegible]

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

Hearings of vital importance to the U.S. TV industry will be started March 3 by the Federal Communications Commission.

The FCC will hear opposition from all three net works, say they'd fight to last fall's Barrow report by an FCC committee which proposed not to break monopoly of telecasting. Its recommendations [illegible] before the main fight will be over a proposal to eliminate network option time.

This would give independent stations full control over their programs when network shows end. It would also give the networks the right to offer more shows to stations. CBS president Frank Stanton says the ruling could cost his network $10,000,000 a year.

Meanwhile [illegible] CBS and [illegible] U.S. Vice-president [illegible] said the [illegible] that CBS [illegible] "[illegible] and does [illegible] to "sell" the government's defence and foreign aid plans. And [illegible] the American people [illegible] as well as public [illegible] to plug [illegible] the practice of entertainment.

Daily Astrology

THURSDAY, JAN. 23

Today's quotation: "The first time it is a favor; the second, a rule."—Chinese Proverbs.

Thursday for everyone: Keep clear of complications; stay out of difficulties involving other people; attend to routine tasks. Try to solve dilemmas tactfully. Get some rest tonight.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below.

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Get all information available before making up your mind. Finish rather than start things.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Keep social and monetary interests apart. Those contacted after noontime can afford some pleasure, but steer clear of risks.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Be ready to adapt to those about you. Be conscientious in the fulfillment of duties, obligations.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Don't overrate matters; seek out the weak angles, limitations, and overcome them.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Be sparing with funds, vitality; relax a bit. Add to savings. Do not permit others to drain your resources.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)—Depend upon your own efforts; don't expect co-operation. However, be quick to appreciate any which is offered.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Add to the worth of your services. Be sure your thinking is clear, practical.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Go slow in connection with expenditures, promises. Keep an eye on loved ones.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—See that domestic and business items go as smoothly as possible. Don't allow others to divert you.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Use extra care en route. Get minor things done; double-check details and information.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius)—Enter into nothing that could prove a strain on finances or possessions. Protect your interests here.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Use ingenuity to avoid unpleasantness. Be patient; get around in person for best results.

Planning ahead: Good for entertaining, sociability; etc.: January 26, 30; February 4.

Brantford Shows Fluorides' Value

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Harry Brown of Ottawa says this city's tooth decay rate has dropped 66 per cent since he began a 10-year study of school children after Brantford began adding fluorine to the drinking water supply.

Dr Brown, a dental health consultant for the department of national health and welfare, said Tuesday he made the study comparing school children in Brantford, Stratford, and Sarnia, all in Ontario.

Brantford has been adding fluorine to its drinking water for the last 12 years. Stratford, which has the lowest decay-rate of any city in Canada adding fluorine, has been adding the chemical for the last 40 years. Sarnia does not add fluorine to the water.

While the tooth decay rate here now is as low as Stratford's, the doctor said, Sarnia has one of the highest in Canada.

She Looked Then Ran

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. F. C. R. Cann returned home, saw that a thief had broken in and moved several things, hunted through the house and found him—yes, under the bed.

"I put my hand under the bed and a man came out and ran," she said. "I ran too."

Police said the man took only a flashlight and some keys.

Continental Link-Up

Striped Toothpaste!

Joy Bates registers delight at the world's first striped toothpaste. It's an invention of Leonard L. Marraffino, a Mt. Vernon, N.Y., printer. In the mouth of the tube is a hollow plastic fitting with five tiny grooves. Behind these grooves there is a small amount of red colored toothpaste and when the tube is squeezed, the white paste passes these grooves and comes out with five bright red stripes, like a candy cane. It's estimated that Marraffino will make a quarter of a million dollars.

New Dialling Code Set for Phones

A "two-letter-five-figure" numbering system for Greater Victoria telephones will begin in September, says E. L. Mallett, Victoria manager for B.C. Telephone Co.

The move will ally Greater Victoria phones with the distance dialing program now being introduced across Canada and the United States. Present expansion of the Blanshard Street telephone building is part of the program.

"More than $1,500,000 will be spent on the installation of an automatic long distance switchboard in the new addition to the building," he said. "This switchboard is designed for operators to ring any one of millions of phones on the North American continent within a few seconds."

Work to eliminate one major cause of complaint from party line users is now in progress, Mr. Mallett added.

When the changeover is ended, all party-line users will hear only their own rings and not the coded rings for other users on the same line. The work should be completed by early spring.

Wurtele Bucks Central Court

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt last night came out against the establishment of a central juvenile court to handle offenders from the city and municipalities.

"It would be very inconvenient and unsatisfactory if each time we had a juvenile offender we had to take him to the court. With only 12 men and the chief in our police force we can't afford to have two men tied up two or three days a week," he said.

'Color Bar in Parts of B.C. As Bad as in U.S. South'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Segregation of Indians in parts of interior British Columbia is as bad as segregation of Negroes in the southern United States, the publisher of a newspaper for Indians said Tuesday.

Mrs. Maisie Hurley, publisher of The Native Voice, supported a statement made Monday by lawyer Peter J. Henslow of Prince George, B.C., on refusal of restaurants in Vanderhoof, 30 miles west of Prince George, to serve Indian customers.

Mrs. Hurley said in an interview the 4,000 Indians of the Carrier tribe living on the Stoney Creek and Fort St. James reserves suffer most from the discrimination of white residents in the interior.

The situation is worst between Hazelton and Burns Lake and in Vanderhoof, she said. Indians in these areas are not allowed to stay in hotels or eat in restaurants, a situation "every bit as bad as segregation in the deepest south."

"Canada has nothing to be smug about," Mr. Hurley said.

B.C. Commissioner William S. Arneil of the Indian affairs department said he has heard of difficulties encountered by Indians in Vanderhoof but "had not realized it was so serious."

Mr. Henstow, vice-president of the Prince George Young Conservative Association, said Monday he will raise the matter in a resolution to be presented at the Feb. 1 B.C. Conservative Association convention in Vancouver.

Criminal Rampage Gets $300,000 Loot

MONTREAL (CP)—The city's criminal element quieted down Wednesday after a 24-hour spree Tuesday during which one suspected bank robber was shot and more than $300,000 taken in a series of thefts and holdups.

A single attempted burglary went awry early Wednesday when an unknown number of men scurried empty-handed from an east-end grocery store. Merchandise was stacked, ready for transportation, but they apparently realized police were on the way.

A shooting in a north-end tavern Tuesday afternoon climaxed a day that saw two bank holdups, one of the city's largest fur robberies and 18 assorted thefts from homes, businesses and individuals.

In hospital with four bullet wounds is Claude Gaudette, 25, shot by constable [illegible] martin minutes after a $1,000 bank robbery.

Two men had entered a north-end branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale, held a gun at the manager's head and forced him to hand over money from a teller's cage.

Constable Caumartin spotted the get-away car a few minutes later outside a tavern. He went inside.

Gaudette was shot when he attacked the constable. Another man was captured and $1,000 recovered.

An hour earlier, four masked men took $6,000 from a branch of the same bank in Montreal North.

Thieves tunnelled through a wall and escaped from a downtown [illegible] Tuesday with furs valued at $250,000.

Rocket Plane May Climb 400 Miles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Senator Frank A. Barrett says the U.S. Air rocket power plane "will [illegible] easily push to altitudes of 400 miles or more."

Such altitudes will be possible "through the addition of booster rockets now available," Barrett said also that the X-15 "is considered the prototype of an aircraft capable of speeds of 12,000 miles an hour."

Relieves Worry

Doctors Prescribe 'Good Cry'

LONDON (Reuters) — A "good cry" now is available as a medical treatment under the national health scheme.

Details of the treatment, called abreaction, are given in the medical press by Dr. Harold Palmer, who advises the cry treatment for people with "bottled-up emotions."

Abreaction consists of removing the root of sorrow from a patient's memory by getting him to talk about his worries. Ether is used to relax the patient, who in many cases bursts into a flood of tears.

The doctor encourages the patient to "weep his heart out."
